Luke's House

10 Years

A Clinic for Healing & Hope

One of my favorite stories about Luke's House: After the storm, when most of our hospitals were so crippled or closed, when the urgent need for health care in the city was second only to housing, we began to dream of opening a free clinic. But in my idealistic naivete, I never imagined how very long it would take us to make that dream a reality-- almost a year of navigating through all sorts of legalities, liabilities, by-laws, insurance, red tape, personnel, and bureaucratic you know what--not to mention volunteers and funding. What a learning experience it was for me, requiring every bit of patience and perseverance I could muster. I remember after each exasperatingly long planning session, I would impatiently exclaim the same thing: "I just want to help ONE person!"

I will never forget when at long last we opened the doors of the clinic to the city. On the first night, after our very our first client arrived and was served by the doctors and nurses, after he left, from behind the curtained examining booths, I heard them all together shout in unison, "WE HELPED ONE PERSON!" And my prayer was answered!

Since that time Luke's House has helped literally hundreds and hundreds of persons in need. May it continue to do so for years to come!

One time, a patient came in with severe back pain. He had been in a motor-vehicle accident a few years ago, and had suffered increasing stiffness and pain since then. He spoke no English and was undocumented; unable to secure insurance. With few options at our disposal (he was unable to pay for physical therapy), I watched as the attending physician took the time to find handouts of helpful exercises in Spanish and print them out; together we taught them to the patient. She explained the benefit of the exercises clearly and made sure the patient felt comfortable doing them on his own. It was a creative way to make do with limited resources for a patient whose quality of life has the potential to improve greatly; if a physician just took time for him.

Luke's House has come a long way from the clinic in a closet.
